A Day with the Analysts

1 min

Today Catherine is going to visit the Analytics Team. They typically drive decision-making by summarizing data, asking good questions, and developing dashboards. They have the most contact with the people who use the data, and therefore focus a lot of attention on storytelling and clear communication.

Catherine already took the Tableau course on Codecademy, and is excited to see how Codecademy's dashboards work. She has decided to revisit her project to refresh her memory.

Follow this link to inspect a project Catherine made in the Tableau course. This project was about movie ratings, using data from Rotten Tomatoes.